Overview

ABSTRACT
There are a range of questions that had not been unanswered regarding interventions to address the prevalence and vulnerability of OVCs in African countries including Kenya. Questions have been raised as to whether interventions should focus specifically on OVCs, or whether they should address poverty and vulnerability in general. Similarly, the choice of the type of intervention, be it cash transfers, education-enhancing measures, or health care is also very important to ensure that scarce resources are utilized in a most effective manner.

This project aimed to provide evidence to inform current and future initiatives for OVCs in poor urban areas. Data from the Nairobi Urban Health and Demographic Surveillance System (NUHDSS) and an additional module to assess the psychosocial wellbeing of OVCs were used, a work program comprising the identification of qualifying beneficiaries and assessment of their economic welfare as well as of the targeting methods was carried out.

The specific objectives of the project were to: conduct regression analyses to explain child welfare indicators (including the psycho-social wellbeing of OVC, a research area that had been untouched) and applied a reliable and valid method of proxy means testing (PMT) to identify households for interventions based on their income or other related socio-economic status indicator.

UNITS OF ANALYSIS
The unit of analysis is the child

Scope

NOTES
The scope of the psycho-social wellbeing survey includes:

CHILD: Background characteristics, behaviour, abuse, fears, shelter and care, physical health, child's attitude towards school and anthropometric measurements.

CHILDS CAREGIVER: Background, Respondent details, Schooling details, health status and health seeking behaviour, food intake, involvement in income generating activity, household relationships,

Coverage

GEOGRAPHIC COVERAGE
Two informal settlements, Korogocho and Viwandani, in Nairobi City (the capital city) of Kenya.

UNIVERSE
The survey covered children aged 6-14 years and resident in the APHRC demographic surveillance area (DSA) were eligible for participation in the study.

Sampling

Sampling Procedure

All children 6-14 years from the NUHDSS database, a total of 9,029; 1,218 orphans and 7,811 non-orphans have been targeted.

Response Rate

There were 9,029 children aged 6-14 years, including 1,218 orphans, 7,609 non-orphans and 202 with unknown status. For the psychosocial survey a random sample of 2,402; 1,202 of these orphans and 1,202 non-orphans was selected from the NUHDSS data.

Weighting

Not weighted.
Questionnaires

Overview

The questionnaires used were structured questionnaires named Child questionnaire and Caregiver. The questionnaires were developed in English and were translated into Kiswahili. The questionnaires included the following Sections:

CHILD: Background, Introduction, Freedom from exploitation, Behaviour, Abuse, Fears, Shelter and care, Physical health, Child's attitude towards school, Anthropometric measurements.

CAREGIVER: Background, Schooling details, Health status and seeking behaviour, Food intake, Involvement in income generating activities, Household relationships

NB: All questionnaires and modules are provided as external resources

Supervision

The field supervisors and team leaders participated in data collection in addition to the supervisory role as stipulated in the field worker's manual.

Additional tasks included quality control through spot checks of interviews and scripts, data cleaning, work assignments, follow-up cases, community liaison.

The team also consisted of editors, who were primarily involved in the data cleaning.

The field co-ordinator, research officer and/or project managers visited the field and field teams regularly to monitor and review progress and support field operations.
Data Processing

Data Editing

Data editing took place at a number of stages throughout the processing, including:

a) Office editing and coding
b) During data entry
c) Structure checking and completeness
d) Secondary editing

Other Processing

Data entry was performed manually at APHRC's headquarters on desktop computers and was done using an in-house built system with a Microsoft Visual Basic and MS SQL softwares.

Data were processed the following steps:

1) Questionnaire reception
2) Office editing and coding
3) Data entry
4) Structure and completeness checking
7) Back up of raw data
8) Export to STATA 10 in 12 files
9) Recoding of variables needed for analysis
10) Structural checking of STATA 12 files
11) Data quality tabulations
12) Production of analysis tabulations
