INTRODUCTION

Hello. My name is [_____] and I am part of team from [APHRC] that is trying to understand the different forms of violence that occur in this community. We would like to ask you a number of questions on this issue, hoping that it will improve understanding of how to tackle problems associated with violence in slum communities, and of how to improve access to services for people that need them.

The risk associated with participating in this brief interview is minimal. Some of the questions we will be asking might be considered as sensitive issues affecting men in this community or you as an individual. Your decision to participate in this brief interview is completely voluntary. We will also refer you to a source of information on free services if you have further questions or if you are experiencing any problems relating to the issues we will be discussing. Remember, all the information you provide during the interview is strictly confidential. At a later stage, we also would like to recruit a few people to participate in a study that will give us a deeper understanding of what men and boys in [Name of Community] are experiencing with violence in this community.

Physical Violence

When people are related by blood or by marriage (whether they be spouses, in-laws, siblings, etc) and live in the same household, they usually share both good and bad moments. I would now like to ask you some questions about your current and past relationships and how you feel you are/have been treated by your wife(s)/partner(s)/girlfriend(s) and/or household members.

If anyone interrupts us, I will change the topic of conversation. I would again like to assure you that your answers will be kept secret, and that you do not have to answer any questions that you do not want to. May I continue?

Conclusion

Thank you very much for talking with me today. I have learned a lot from you. I might be back one more time to have a further discussion with you on these issues. The aim of this study is to prevent violence and abuse of both men and women and provide help and support services in future for those affected by the violence and abuse in this community.

No one should experience any form of violence including emotional violence. [Inform the respondent of his rights under the law].

Would you be willing to participate in a more in-depth discussion on your personal experiences?
